established which requires that "The heads of all Federal agencies shall assume responsibility for the preservation of historic properties which are owned or controlled by such agency. Each Federal agency shall establish, unless exempted, in consultation with the Secretary, a preservation program for the identification, evaluation, and nomination to the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP), and protection of historic properties. Each Federal agency shall initiate measures to assure that where, as a result of Federal action or assistance carried out by such agency, a historic property is to be substantially altered or demolished, timely steps are taken to make or have made appropriate records, and that such records then can be deposited for future use and reference". Sections 110(g) and 302 of reference (a) authorize the expenditure of funds for preservation purposes. Section 111 authorizes leases, exchanges, and management contracts to be used for ensuring preservation of cultural resources.

(2) Per reference (a), as early as possible before an agency makes a final decision concerning an undertaking, Section 106 requires Federal agencies to take into account the effects of an undertaking on any district, site, building, structure, or object listed or eligible for listing on the NRHP. The Advisory Council on Historic Preservation must be afforded an opportunity to comment on any undertaking which has the potential to affect eligible or listed NRHP properties.

(3) In accordance with reference (a), the Secretary of Interior, through the National Park Service (NPS), administers the NRHP. The NRHP is a listing of districts, sites, buildings, structures, and objects significant on the national, regional or local level in American history, architecture, archeology, engineering, and culture. The NPS also creates standards for maintenance and rehabilitation of historic buildings, provides interagency archaeological services, and offers technical assistance for recording historic properties prior to destruction.

(4) Reference (b) provides for the protection against unauthorized excavation, removal, alteration, or defacement of archaeological resources, and requires permits be issued for authorized excavations. Persons who, without authorization, excavate, remove, damage, alter, or deface archaeological resources may be assessed civil penalties. The civil penalties may be the full cost of restoration and repair of the archaeological resources plus the full archaeological or commercial value of archaeological resources destroyed or not recovered. A subsequent violation of reference (b) may be assessed double the costs mentioned above. Additionally, a known violation of reference (b) is a criminal act punishable with a fine and imprisonment for up to two years, or up to five years for subsequent violations. Consistent with reference (b), use of a metal detector for other than official purposes is prohibited.

(5) Reference (c) establishes a policy of integrating archaeological and historic preservation requirements with the planning and management of Department of Defense (DoD) activities.

(6) Reference (d) identifies development and implementation of a Historic and Archaeological Resource Protection Program and the Integrated Cultural Resource Management Plan (ICRMP).

The ICRMP is the Installations' means of compliance with Federal law, DoD instruction, and Marine Corps directives. This will be used by planners, engineers, land and natural resources managers, military training personnel, construction personnel, archeologists, historians, architects, and cultural resource managers in the management of the archaeological and historic resources at Camp Lejeune and New River.
